Training Topics (We've included them all so you don't need to choose!)

Centers in the Classroom Environment (1 Hour)

The environment a child learns in should be set up for success of all levels of development and styles of interest. This training will address the importance of, and provide participants with effective tools, for creating developmentally appropriate spaces in the classroom environment through the use of play-based center station areas set up for infants through Pre-K classrooms. Participants will be equipped with resourceful classroom evaluation checklists and fun ideas to help them provide a nurturing, engaging, organized, and safe environment for the children they love!

Assessing for ALL Learners (1 Hour)

Here trainees will learn a variety of formal and informal ways they can assess young children in the early childhood setting, which will allow for differentiation and accountability, without any limitations. Each child deserves to be assessed based on his or her own true growth potential. When we use a variety of assessments for all children in our care, we are getting results for the abilities they can accomplish at their level, and learn how to keep documentation to help us with parent communication for their child's individual growth and development. We will collaborate in small groups, watch video examples to help inspire ideas, and you will be equipped with age appropriate milestone checklists for infants up to Pre-K children to help you implement what you've learned after the training is over!

Take Back Your Creativity: Curriculum Design (1 Hour)

Purchasing & following a pre-planned curriculum as a teacher is what we do, easy right? Maybe not. Well, I have a challenge for you. Take back your creativity & showcase your passion as an early educator! Make learning in your classroom meaningful and much more fun for your little ones! This is a true hands-on workshop, to motivate early childhood educators and guide them through the step-by-step process of how to create their own curriculum activity plans, using curriculum maps. During this training, every educator will get to collaborate, experience, and design their very own activity plan to keep & incorporate for use in their own classroom. Oh, and come ready to act out activity examples & play games during this session just for fun too.

A Child's Well-Being: Abuse and Neglect (2 Hour)

The purpose of this training is to educate other professionals of positive strategies to help all children in their care become successful individuals in a growing society, and enhance their overall well-being from birth through early childhood. In this training workshop we will focus on the topics of child abuse and neglect, maintaining healthy and high quality safe standards, learn positive behavior & response strategies when communicating with our children, and we will discuss the importance of understanding the 4 parenting styles and their effects in relation to a child's growth and development overall. At the end, participants will enjoy collaborating solutions to child well-being problem scenarios in small groups with like-minded professionals!
